

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device for treating a keratinous surface of a body may comprise an envelope defining an opening configured to receive a user's hand. The envelope may comprise a first outer face comprising a nonwoven fibrous material and having a first roughness and a second outer face comprising a nonwoven fibrous material and having a second roughness that differs from the first roughness.

2014-03-10 10:44:00